

Good news!

Retirement bonus

You may be eligible for a bonus when you open a Retirement Income account.

When you decide to open and transfer your super to a tax-free retirement phase account, like our Flexible or Managed Income accounts, the money that we put aside to pay certain taxes while your money was in the super phase can be returned to you.

You don't need to apply for the bonus. If you're eligible we'll automatically calculate and pay the bonus before your income payments start.

Am I eligible?

You may be eligible to receive the retirement bonus when you first start your Flexible or Managed Income account.

You can only receive the bonus once, and it won't apply to any new Flexible or Managed Income accounts you open or top-ups you may do in the future.

You won't receive a retirement bonus if you:

- open a Transition to Retirement (TTR) Income account
- convert your TTR Income account to a Retirement Income account
- held a retirement account before 1 April 2021

- are the recipient of an income stream as a reversionary beneficiary
- receive a death benefit and commence a death benefit income stream or child income stream

Direct Investment option (DIO) investments transferred from CareSuper super accounts into a Flexible Income account are not eligible for the retirement bonus.

How much will I receive?

The bonus is calculated as a percentage of the amount you transfer to start your Flexible or Managed Income account, subject to eligibility rules.

The current retirement bonus rate is 0.30%.

If you choose to transfer investments in our DIO from a CareSuper super account to a Flexible Income account, these amounts will not be eligible for the retirement bonus.

There's no cap on the bonus amount paid and the rate may vary in the future.

Frequently asked questions

? How is the retirement bonus funded?

It's funded from a reduction in tax payable by CareSuper when a member commences an eligible Flexible or Managed Income account.

Complying super funds must pay tax on investment earnings in the super (accumulation) phase. We set aside money as an estimate of the tax required to be paid when fund assets are sold.

When money is moved from the accumulation phase (i.e. our CareSuper super account) to the tax-free retirement phase (Retirement Income) there's no longer a requirement for CareSuper to pay tax on these assets. This is because all investment earnings in a Flexible or Managed Income account are exempt from tax, whether income or capital gains. These tax savings are passed on to eligible members as the retirement bonus.

? Does the retirement bonus count towards the before-tax (concessional) cap?

No. The bonus will be paid into your CareSuper account just before the transfer to your Flexible or Managed Income account.

? Does the bonus count towards the transfer balance cap?

Yes. You'll need to make sure that the total amount you transfer into the retirement phase, including any retirement bonus you receive, is less than the $1.9 million transfer balance cap (2024-25) or your personal transfer balance cap, if lower.

The transfer balance cap is a limit on how much super can be transferred into retirement phase income products like our Flexible and Managed Income accounts. For more information on the transfer balance cap, visit the Australian Taxation Office website at ato.gov.au.
